The European Central Bank (ECB) is seeking through this open procedure a supplier for the provision of pre-press and printing services.

The official publications of the ECB primarily serve to fulfil reporting obligations as laid down in the Treaty and in the Statute of the ESCB. The ECB is obliged by its rules and regulations to publish reports on its activities at least quarterly and does so on a monthly basis (Monthly Bulletin). The ECB also produces an annual report which is presented to the European Parliament and submitted to the European Council and the European Commission. The ECB's convergence reports inform on the progress made by EU Member States outside the euro area towards achieving the Treaty's convergence criteria. Additionally to its reporting obligations the ECB produces a number of publications which provide information on its core activities such as monetary policy, statistics, payments and securities settlement systems, financial stability and supervision, international and European cooperation and legal matters. These ECB publications mentioned so far are targeted at economists and other academics, members of financial organisations, the national central banks (NCBs) and all those interested in economic and monetary policy.

The ECB also publishes a wide range of printed matters about the euro banknotes and coins aiming at increasing the awareness of the general public in the European Union and beyond. Such type of information material is produced to support both 'regular' communication activities around the euro cash (training and anti-counterfeiting materials for cashiers, educational kits for schools, deliverables for different target groups, etc.) and on the occasion of euro cash changeovers (i.e. new Member States of the European Union adopting the euro currency).

In the near future the ECB will also launch large-scale communication campaigns to inform the public about the release of an upgraded series of euro banknotes. Such fully fledged campaigns do rely on a multimedia and multichannel approach in order to reach as many cross sections of the population; nonetheless printed materials will still play a strong role in achieving the objective of informing an audience of over 300 000 000 citizens speaking 23 different official languages. As such material will have to be produced well ahead of the foreseen unveiling and issue dates, large quantities of deliverables will need to be produced and stored under secure conditions.
